

INTRODUCTION

Following are numerous Olympic bests, records, leaders lists, and various signfica that may be of use during the Rio 2016 Olympics. These are derived from the databases maintained by the OlyMADMen, a group of 15 Olympic statisticians / historians from 9 nations, whose hobby borders on mental illness at times. The lists are in several categories: Medal Records, Appearance Records, Age Records, Medal Lists, and Special Medal Records.

The lists contain records for both Overall (all nations) and the USA, with the Overall records listed first. All USA records are highlighted in Bold font. Medal and appearance records are the top 10 and ties, although in some cases, where the list would be overly long, it is only noted that "XX athletes tied with X." Age records are the top 25 performers, with all performances listed to that level.

Records include the 1906 Olympic Games which are controversial. The IOC does not recognize them, while the ISOH (International Society of Olympic Historians) does and feels that they definitely should be recognized by the IOC. Records which include a mark from the 1906 Olympics are marked in Red. This mostly involves records set by Ray Ewry (USA), who won 10 standing jump gold medals, including the 1906 Olympics, or 8 standing jump gold medals, if one does not include them. In cases where Ewry's record would make the list, without including 1906, those are added and marked in Purple. The record lists also include marks from the Winter Olympics, but these are marked in Blue. The lists do not include medals or records (including age records) achieved in the Arts Competitions, which were held at the Olympics from 1912-48, but only includes medals and records set in sporting events.

Age records may vary slightly because of how they are calculated. Competitor age records are taken to the day an event starts, while medalist age records are taken to the day the event ends – when the final medal standings are determined. Thus there can be a slight variance if an athlete is listed in both the competitor and medalist age records. In some cases, we only know a year of birth, or occasionally, the year and month of birth. To determine age, a worst case scenario is always used, thus, for a youngest age record, we assume the date as 1 January, or the 1st day of a month, while for an oldest age record we assume the date as 31 December, or the 28/29/30/31st day of the month.

The records were all obtained by querying our databases and should be accurate as of 1 July 2016. Please note that there are still some medal controversies related to PED (performance-enhancing drug) disqualifications. The IOC does not always rule immediately on such cases. The current status is the IF (usually the IAAF) changes the results, but only the IOC can change a medal standing, so we need a final decision by the IOC. In cases where no definite decision is announced, we tend to be very conservative about changing a result. However, the database, including all known changes of medal standings, is accurate as of 1 July 2016. Totals (273 / 274 events)		274	260	255	789

Notes: The above totals and rankings do not include the 1906 Olympic Games, following the IOC ruling that they are not considered official Olympics Games, a policy with which the International Society of Olympic Historians (ISOH) disagrees. The rank in the left column uses the standard American system of ranking by total medals – gold – silver – bronze, in descending order. The rank in the right column uses the standard European / international system of ranking by gold – silver – bronze, in descending order.

Also, the above medal lists do not include medals won the Arts Competition, which awarded medals to artists from 1912-48, but only includes sports events.

Please note that, at some time during the 2016 Rio Olympics, an American athlete will likely win the 1,000th Summer Olympic gold medal (not including 1906) for @TeamUSA. @TeamUSA will need 25 gold medals in Rio de Janeiro to reach this milestone.

Notes:

- Art Longsjø (1956) and David Gilman (1984) are the only Americans to have competed at the Summer and Winter Olympics in the same years, which can no longer occur.
- Including the ten (10) Americans (5 women / 5 men) who have competed in both Olympic Games, this has been accomplished 135 times (29 women / 106 men) by competitors from all nations, 45 times by track & field athletes/bobsledders (3 Americans), and 19 times by cyclists/speedskaters (5 Americans). Of the 10 Americans listed above, only Eddie Eagan and David Gilman did not compete in either the ATH/BOB, or CYC/SSK double.
- Eddie Eagan is unique among all Olympians in having won gold medals at both the Summer and Winter Olympics.
- Lauryn Williams is the only other American to medal at both the Winter and Summer Olympics, and one of only five Olympians to do so, joining Eagan, Clara Hughes (CAN-CYC/SSK), Christa Luding-Rothenberger (GDR/GER-CYC/SSK), and Jacob Tullin Thams (NOR-SAI/SKJ).
